IMPROMPTU CAN BALANCE

INTRODUCTION: This illusion is one of those little gems, so simple, so easy, so AMAZING so why didn't I learn this trick before! Well that's what I asked myself anyway. Read on for the effect and secret.

THE EFFECT: You take an ordinary unprepared can of drink which you have been drinking from the whole time and defy the laws of gravity by making it balance at a 45 degree angle on a table on the floor or any flat surface. The can is totally unsupported by you in any way.

While your spectators are stunned you pick the can back up and carry on drinking from it. Hand the can to anyone and let them try and perform the trick - they can't - it's impossible. Unless you know the secret of course!

Perform this illusion anywhere; at a party, at the pub, at a BBQ. Literally take any can and perform it!

- Totally impromptu
- Everything can be examined
- Minimal set up
- Really amazing magic
- No magnets, no strings nothing added
- Any can of drink can be used

THE SECRET: I'm sure you will agree the simplest tricks are often the most baffling and amazing. Well this is such a trick. You are literally drinking the secret!

This trick is really just a simple balancing act, it looks impossible to do, but in fact is really easy!

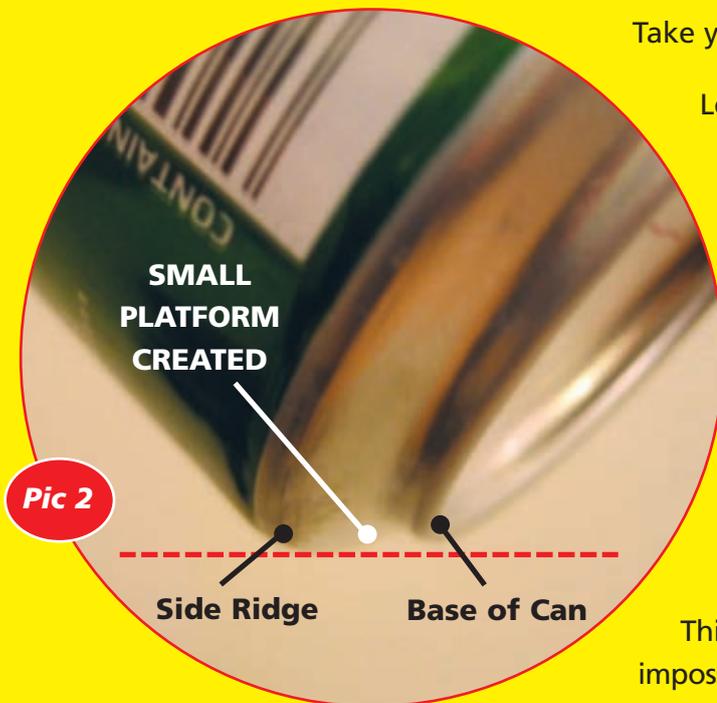

All you need to do is take any can and drink about two thirds of it (easy job!). Whether it be a fizzy drinks can or a beer can you need to drink (or tip out in advance if you prefer) TWO THIRDS of the can leaving about ONE THIRD left.

This is an approximate and you will need to experiment.

This one third remaining acts as a weight or counter balance to the rest of the can (Pic 1).

Simply place the can at a 45 degree angle so the very base of the can and side ridge acts as a small platform. Place the can in this position then hold it there for a second or so to let the liquid settle.

Take your hand away and it should stay (Pic 2).

Let the effect sink in for a little while. Take a good step back to prove you are not supporting it in any way shape or form.

You can even take your hand and place it over, under and around the can (being careful not to touch it) to prove there are no wires or anything.

The great part about this trick is that if the can has too much liquid in or too little the effect is impossible.

This gives you the ability to render the effect impossible by drinking more of the liquid that was left in the can and handing it out for the spectator to try and do.

It looks like the most natural thing in the world to take a few mouthfuls then hand it to them. In fact it proves that the can is normal and not fake. If you are at a party, gathering or BBQ use one of the host's cans it makes the effect that much more baffling!

TIP 1: You can do this trick with almost any can, I have tried with many and have had a near perfect success rate. All fizzy drink cans have worked for me as well as most brands of beer. The only brand I have had trouble with is Carling! Must be something to do with how they mold their cans.

TIP 2: Using a beer can (if you are old enough!) gives a better effect because the can is taller so looks more amazing when balanced. A fizzy drinks can still looks cool but a beer can looks that much more effective, try it!

TIP 3: You need to perform this on a relatively even surface or the can may start to turn and swing in a circle, try it and see. Granted this looks quite cool - maybe you can develop a further effect with this? Also try balancing the can on the edge of a table (so it hangs over) this seems to heighten the illusion.

TIP 4: If while you are performing someone grabs at the can or even picks it up they will find nothing unusual about it. Just take the earliest opportunity to get it back so they do not try and balance it. Say something like "Hey get your own Magic beer!" take it back and take a couple of mouthfuls then if you wish you can let them have a go!

TIP 5: Before the balance why not rub the can on your head and say something like "I just need to build up the static for this effect" this gives the spectators a laugh and a red herring at the same time making them believe you are doing this with static electricity.

The beauty of this effect is that it is totally self contained and impromptu. Nothing additional added or taken away. The best part of the effect is that once you have performed it you make it impossible for anyone else to do it!

Have fun with this one, I know I do - but remember always practice first! :-)
